Study with a top 10 UK University right here in Cyprus, at a leading University in the region

The University of Warwick is one of the UK's leading universities, with an acknowledged reputation for excellence in research and teaching, for innovation and for links with business and industry. Warwick has consistently maintained its position in the top ten of UK university league tables, offering courses with high academic content that are stimulating and challenging.

Since 2011 Eastern Mediterranean University has been the official Cyprus centre for WMMG, University of Warwick MSc programmes in Engineering Business Management and Supply Chain and Logistics Management.

These highly prestigious MSc degrees can be completed in just one full year of academic study on the EMU campus, and include an option for taking two modules in the UK and other overseas centres.

All Eastern Mediterranean University students receive an automatic 20% scholarship with up to 40% offered according to academic performance at undergraduate level.

Previous students on the program have come from a wide-range of backgrounds, including engineering, business, tourism, architecture and information technology. In all cases the students have been motivated by the desire to gain not only a top class world-renowned degree but the practical knowledge and skills required of top managers in both the world of industry and the service sector.

The University of Warwick is currently ranked number 9 in the UK according to the Guardian 2017 ranking of universities, and number 51 in the world (QS System). Hence, these programs offer the chance to get a full postgraduate degree from one of the world's top Universities.

If you would like to learn more about this opportunity and consider an application for the 2018-2019 year, please do feel free to visit the WMMG EMU office on the EMU Campus or visit warwick.emu.edu.tr

Frequently Asked Questions

How long does the WMG MSc Programme take to complete?

The full MSc programme comprises nine modules and a project, and full-time students are expected to complete all programme requirements in one calendar year. Students registering part-time on the programme have a maximum of three years to complete programme requirements.

Is this a 'joint programme'?

No, the programme is delivered entirely by WMG, University of Warwick. Eastern Mediterranean University does however offer exemptions on its own programmes for students who have successfully completed WMG modules; some students take advantage of this to complete two Master's degrees within a 24-30 month period.

How is the course delivered?

Each module comprises one week of intensive full-day instruction, followed by a 4000-5000 word assignment to be completed within 6 weeks of the end of the module. The nine assignments count for 50% of the overall course grade. The project, which you will start working on from the beginning of the course, is approximately 15,000-20,000 words. The project counts for 50% of the final grade for the MSc. The modules are delivered by WMG staff who come to EMU for the intensive week along with specialists at EMU. You will also have a project and course supervisor at EMU.

Can we take modules at other WMG Centres?

Acceptance on courses at other centres is at the discretion of each centre. As part of your course fee you may apply to attend two modules in another WMG Centre, including the University of Warwick in the UK. Local centres are allowed to charge an additional cost for any hospitality; you would of course be responsible for any extra expenses occurred (e.g. transportation, visas, accommodation etc.). Other options include spending time at one of WMG's centres in the far east, e.g. Hong Kong, China, India, Singapore, Thailand and Malaysia.

When can we enrol?

The programme normally begins in September, but it is possible to enrol at other times of the year.
